COAL MINERS IN TOLL OF DEAD AND DYING

27 KILLED IN EXPLOSION AT MOSSBORO MINE

OXYGEN PUMPED INTO SHAFT IN VAIN EFFORT TO SAVE
THEM

"WINDY SHOT" OR BACKFIRE
FROM TAMPED SHOT CAUSED BLAST

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 30.—(UP)—The death toll in the gas explosion of the Premier Coal Mine at Mossboro, Ala., near here, was brought to 27 today when searchers found 10 additional bodies.

Seventeen bodies were taken from the mine a short time after the explosion and it was hoped that the remaining 10 would be rescued alive. During the night oxygen was pumped into the shaft in the belief that their lives would be saved.

When the entry was penetrated today, however, the remaining ten bodies were found.

Eleven of the dead were white, the others negroes.

Funerals of the victims will be held tomorrow at Mossboro. Relief work for the families of the dead was promised by the coal company. A "windy shot" or backfire from a poorly tamped powder blast is believed to have been the cause of the explosion.

5 KILLED AT NEW ORIENT MINE

West Frankfort, Ill., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Investigations were started today to determine the cause of the fatal blast in the New Orient mine, the world's largest colliery, here Friday, in which five men were killed.

Although there were more than 1,000 men at work in the shafts at the time of the blast, preventative measures prevented the fire and gas from extending to other regions of the mine.

One of the stories to be investigated today is that one of the workmen entering the mine Friday night was smoking a cigarette against the mine rules. The story is that the cigarette ignited a gas pocket, causing the "local explosion."

3 DEAD AT BEAR CREEK COAL CO.

Trinidad, Col., Jan. 30.—The dead in the No. 3 mine of the Bear Creek Coal Company today stood at three, while nearly a score more were suffering slight injuries from burns. An explosion of gas in the mine yesterday entombed 36 miners working on the fourth level. All but three succeeded in making their way to safety after their clothing had been burned to shreds in what they described as a "hot black wind."

4 MINERS KILLED IN A CAVEIN

Miami, Fla., Jan. 30.—Four miners were killed by a cave-in at the Cardin Zinc mine near here today.

Rescue work is held up on account of a second cave-in which injured one of the rescue party. No identification has yet been made of the dead, according to meager reports here.

BELIEVE COMELY NURSE ACTED AS A DECOY

Chicago, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Authorities today held Miss Dorothy Jackman, a comely nurse, in the belief she had acted as a decoy in the theft of $15,000 from Francis Lloyd Rolston, wealthy Canadian mine owner.

Rolston reported to police that two men posing as prohibition agents, had gained entrance to his apartment and robbed him of cash and negotiable securities approximating $15,000. He said he suspected Miss Jackman, whom he had employed as nurse and companion, of leading the men to his place. He identified Fred Haeger, arrested in company with Miss Jackman as one of the men who held him up. The Canadian had been taken ill during his visit to Chicago and had engaged Miss Jackman to "show him around the town." She had furnished his liquor supply, he said.

4 IMPORTANT POINTS IN BILL WILL RECEIVE WIDE
DISCUSSION

Congress Today

Senate:
Reading of tax bill.
Hearings in Johnson-Schall contest.

House:
Considers agriculture appropriation bill.
Appropriations committee considers state and justice and commerce and labor appropriation bills.

Rivers and harbors committee hears Secretary of Commerce Hoover on Cape Cod canal bill.

Congress 100 Years Ago Today

Senate:
Resolution introduced providing for annual distribution by federal government of $23,000 to states for education and internal improvements.

Agreed to take out within a week proposed amendment to constitution providing for election of president and vice president by electors.

House:
Resolution to investigate financial accounts of late President Monroe tabled.

President requested in resolution to furnish house with communications received from Mexico, Central America and Colombia, inviting United States to be present at congress of Panama.

Washington, Jan. 30.—(UP)—The real battle over the $352,661,000 tax reduction bill was scheduled to begin in the senate late today after the reading clerk disposes of the 50 unread pages of the measure.

Bitter warfare will be waged on the floor over the four important points of the bill in its present form:

1. Repeal of the federal inheritance tax.

2. Repeal of the income public-law clause.

3. New lower surtax rates which reach a minimum of 20 per cent on $500,000 income, compared with the present 40 per cent maximum.

4. Administrative changes mostly in the functioning of the internal revenue bureau, recommended by the Couzens committee.

The sporadic debate which has interrupted the reading of the measure during the last two days has indicated that the fight will find some regulars with the insurgents against the present bill.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, expects to use the Couzens report to bolster his demand that publicity of income taxes be retained. He will also demand that publicity be extended to the operations of the revenue bureau.

AUSTIN GIRLS BROKE THROUGH THE ICE OF CEDAR RIVER

SWAM TO CHILDREN, PLACED
THEM ON ICE, MOTORIST
FISHES ALL OUT

Austin, Minn., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Three school girls owe their lives today to William Peterson who rescued them from drowning in the Cedar River.

The girls, Mary Minar, Sylvia Kine and Wandita Hill, all under ten were walking on the ice over Cedar River when they crashed through. Peterson, who was on the road, heard their cries and went to the rescue. The thin ice would not support his weight and he was forced to swim to the children whom he reached with difficulty and placed on the ice.

It was then Peterson's turn to be rescued, for exhausted by his efforts he was unable to crawl onto the ice. A passing motorist came to his aid and drew him with the three girls to safety.

SERVE BANK OF CHICAGO

REPORT ON CREAMERY PRODU-
TION IN 7TH FEDERAL RE-SERVE DISTRICT

Chicago, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Creamery butter production in the Seventh Federal Reserve district during December showed a gain of 6.6 per cent of the month of November, according to the monthly report of business conditions by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago.

Receipts at primary markets in Wisconsin indicate that 13.3 per cent less cheese was manufactured in December than in November, the report said. The quantity of cheese distributed from these points was 9.3 per cent less than the previous month but 2.9 per cent more than for December a year ago.

December receipts of butter and cheese at Chicago were smaller than the preceding month but those for eggs were larger.

Receipts and shipments of flour were heavier at Chicago during December of this year than they were during December of either 1924 or 1923 and also exceeded the volume which moved through here in November.

Besides Sylvester, who was president, four other officers of the bank were indicted on charges of fraud. When the poor condition of the bank was first learned, bank examiners believed it due to frozen credits but upon investigation it was discovered that the bank had been robbed of $97,000 of its total assets of $101,000.

MACHINERY TO FIX WAGES IN THE COAL FIELDS

NOW REMAINS SHARPLY CON-TESTED POINT IN COAL
STRIKE PARLEY

OPERATORS DEMAND COMPUL-SORY ARBITRATION OF WAGES

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—Machinery to fix wages in future disputes within the hard coal industry now remains the most sharply contested point in the negotiations of the conference attempting to bring to an end the present strike.

Operators in the newest summation of their demands laid before the conference demand compulsory arbitration of wages; the miners offer a conciliatory commission with power of recommendation only, a sort of voluntary arbitration.

Possibility of acceptance by the miners of the employers' plan is scarcely considered. As to whether the operators will reject the voluntary proposal there is doubt.

The miners' proposal calls for a five year contract with immediate resumption of mining under the old wage scale. These rates continue until September 1, 1928.

Co-operation between the Union and the operators in increasing efficiency of the collieries was provided for in the miners' plan in return for which the operators were asked to grant a voluntary and modified check-off.

2 WOMEN BANK ROBBERS FACE A PRISON SENTENCE

The jury in the case was out three hours and returned a verdict of guilty after three ballots.

Mrs. Rogers and her daughter received the verdict calmly although the sentence for first degree robbery calls for from one to 20 years imprisonment.

Defense counsel pleaded for asylum treatment rather than imprisonment for his clients and the husband of Mrs. Rogers testified "she is crazy" but the court was obdurate in its decision.

The women bandits will be sentenced Tuesday.

MYSTERY DEATHS OF FATHER AND FOUR CHILDREN

BODIES OF 5 FOUND IN THEIR HOME AT CLEVELAND
LAND

AUTHORITIES SEEK TO FIND THE CAUSE OF DEATH OF HOUSEHOLD

Cleveland, O., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Burns in the mouth of three year old Jeano Fulvi, believed to have been caused by acid poison, spurred Cleveland authorities to speed up the investigation in the mysterious death of Jeano's father, Arthur Fulvi, and four of his children, whose bodies were found in their home here late yesterday.

Detectives hurried samples of beer, wine, food and coffee consumed by the Fulvis on Thursday evening to city chemists for analysis. The cork on the bottle containing the sample of coffee disclosed a murky green by the time it reached city offices and is regarded as an important clue.

Jeano and his mother are the sole survivors of the tragedy. Both are in local hospitals and the police are awaiting their further recovery before interrogating Mrs. Fulvi.

Theories of the cause of death include ptomaine poisoning, wood alcohol poisoning, acid poisoning, cyanide poisoning and asphyxiation from a flueless furnace.

COUNT SALM WINS THE FIRST ROUND

New York, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraeten, Austrian nobleman, today won the first round of his suit for separation from his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, Standard Oil heiress, when he was granted permission to see his son, Peter, four days a week.

Heretofore the count had charged that he had never seen the baby and that his wife had refused him this right.

Salm's victory came in the form of a stipulation filed in supreme court and agreed to by Richard S. Conway, counsel for the Standard Oil heiress and by the count's attorney.

The stipulation is signed without reservation. In it the nobleman conceded that it would be dangerous to bring the child to New York as he had originally demanded during the winter season.

Salm withdrew from this stand when advised by Dr. R. G. Cooley to whom he went for advice that the child's health would be endangered.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926

SKIRTS AND SOULS

New York, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Here's another whack at women who wear short skirts and smoke cigarettes. Mrs. John B. Henderson, well-known society woman of Washington, D. C. intends to appeal to the Daughters of the Revolution and other similar societies to assist her in waging a war against short skirts and cigarettes. It is through the mothers of America that Mrs. Henderson hopes to strike the knee-exposing daughters.

Anything that is sponsored by so reputable a person as Mrs. Henderson is worthy of contemplation. Anything for the betterment of our young morals is likewise worth our consideration.

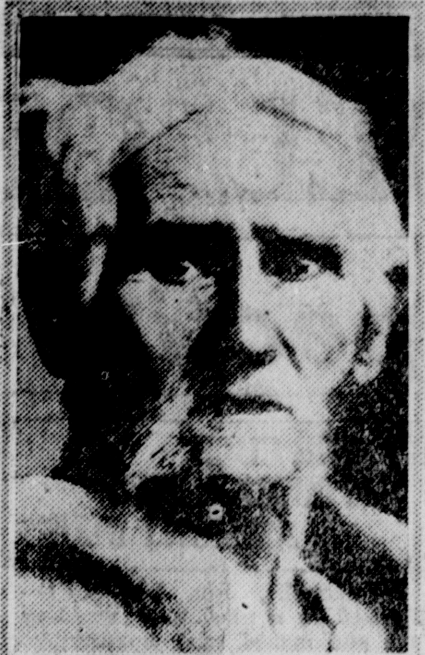

However, let's recall the styles of the days when most of the women sponsoring this new movement were in their flapperhood. The days when virtue paraded in bustles, hip-pads, front frills, false locks and corset stays. Surely the leg is no more of an immoral influence than were the plumpish bust and hip effects which made women look over-sexed in those days. The freedom of short-skirts and uncorseted bodies does not give us moral freedom. If girls are inclined to be wild today it's not because their "innerds" are unfettered or because their hair is short. Virtue can not be imperilled by such things.

In creating the world the maker saw fit to provide all living things other than fish or reptiles with from two or four legs upon which to navigate. Man-made laws demanded that the female of the human species entwine her legs in skirts. Recently women have been untwining a little. Hence the furor. Short skirts have no bearing on morals. They are sane, sanitary and give us the freedom of limb which is essential in these days of speeding vehicles. They have never made a girl "bad" nor can they. Men have grown so accustomed to seeing their mothers and sisters in them that they no longer find legs more enticing than arms, lips or eyes.

Bobbed hair likewise is tabooed by many of the ladies who wish to curb the waywardness of modern Misses. But, thank goodness, the days when theatres reeked with the odor of stale switches and long tresses are past. If long hair is a soul-saver, short hair is a time-saver.

As to smoking, that's a matter for the individual to solve. Until a law is passed prohibiting smoking, women who like to smoke will demand equal rights with men. Aside from its possible detriment to health, smoking has no influence upon morals. Smoking can't deaden the brain or set women on the man hunt. In fact, many men steer clear of girls who smoke.

With all due respect to the upright women who are aiming to make the world a better place for girls to live in, we are inclined to believe that these ladies are not the ones who "set" or wear styles. And although we may eventually go back to long hair and long hems, it will be because we are following a fashion and not a moral regime thrust upon us by a sincere group of elderly ladies who have forgotten the days when they were proud of their rotund chests.

The Scent of Sweet Alyssum

By JOSEPHINE S. BROOKS

(Copyright.)

"CLYDE!"
"Alice!"
A flush mounted to both faces of this handsome couple, now planning to separate—a superb pair.

The woman was speaking:
"I just mailed you a note, Clyde, to come over tomorrow evening. I thought we'd better settle on—that is—choose the mementoes each prefers. You may have first choice, except—"

"No, no, Alice." The man's breath caught sharply.

"You'll come, Clyde?"

"Oh, yes," eagerly.

"I'm on my way to Glenvale now, but I will be back in time." She turned to go.

"Alice."

"Yes—what is it?"

"I—Alice—if you'd only—" he stammered.

The wife put up a warning finger.

"Good-by. I'll see you tomorrow evening."

That evening Clyde Faulkner, in his lonely apartments, stood gazing at his wife's photograph.

"You are beautiful, and I worship you. But self-will, uncurbed by doting parents, is separating us, and for trifles."

He snapped off the lights, and sat in the moon-lighted window. But the moon brought too vivid memories of courtship days. He left the apartment and sauntered far from the city.

Suddenly the scent of sweet alyssum came to him. It was like torture—this reminder of their engagement flower.

He covered his eyes a second, and passed on. But sweet memories grew too strong. He retraced his steps to the little florist's shop. He bought a huge bunch of the sweet flowers. Quite late he entered the apartment and placed them in water. Then he opened his wallet and took out a small white package containing a yellowed spray of sweet alyssum.

"Nearly turned to ashes—like our romance," he sighed.

The next evening, after a most prolonged, nervous toilet, he set out for his wife's apartments.

She met him with the cordial greeting of a friend, nothing more.

"We'd better get it over with quickly," she advised. "Here are photographs." Her voice faltered a little.

His breath came heavily as he saw his little child's pictures.

"Clyde, mothers feel more keenly than fathers—" The man winced—"So—So I thought I'd take the latest one. You can get another—some time. You may have the baby picture."

The man's face worked pitifully.

"Yes, yes, Alice. Keep the other—I—You must not sacrifice it."

She reached out a tiny infant shoe.

"Clyde, this is for you. I have the mate."

Clyde, unable to bear more, arose hastily. "I must go, Alice, unless—"

A—yawning gesture of negation stopped him. He left abruptly.

Alice Faulkner alighted from her car and walked up the broad path to the Orphans' home. Her heart ached for her lost little one. If she could find one who looked like her she must have her. No one suited. She stood there fearfully disappointed, only half-hearing the matron's order for the maid to prepare the little girl for her new father who was due at any time.

Soon the maid reappeared with the beautiful child.

Alice gazed in rapture. The child was the image of her own little Doris.

"Oh, can't I have her?—She's so like my own! I must have her," she begged.

"You are too late. She goes with her new father. There he is now."

As he entered he started back as if alarmed at the sight of a beautiful woman closely clasping his newly adopted child. The woman's tears he saw were falling on the child's golden hair. He heard her crooning love talk to the baby, who patted the "pitty lady's" face—the face of his wife.

The woman looked around and looked straight into the eyes of her tall, handsome husband.

"Clyde—you—you are—the one—who—?"

He nodded. Both were conscious of an impending crisis, all unmindful of the wondering eyes bent upon them.

The baby arms clung closed. "Me love 'ou," she lisped.

"Clyde, I must have her. You can't take her from me."

The man, his eyes suspiciously moist and tender, drew nearer. The child, chuckling with glee, put one arm around his neck, the other around the wife's.

"There, you see she clings to me, Clyde." "What about me?" he asked. Then, in a low voice, he whispered:

"Alice, you may have her"—the woman's face gleamed—"If—you'll take me, too. I can't let her go, either. Don't you see I'm doubly lonely—now?"

"Why—why! Clyde, we can then both have her." The light glorified her face.

A little child had wrought far more than could any lawyer.

"We'll call her Alyssa, dear." An exalted note sang through his tone.

"Alyssa! from—from our alyssum engagement flower? And you remembered!"

Right before matron and maid Clyde drew forth the faded spray of sweet alyssum.

"And to think," she cried, "that I almost wrecked—oh, Clyde!"

Bell Hangers' Services

No Longer in Demand

Modern scientific inventions which have spelled the ash heap for old-fashioned usages have sounded the death knell for another once respected and prosperous vocation—bell hanging.

Like the makers of clipper ships, hoopskirts and the sundry other developments of the past which have come and gone, struck down by the march of progress and fashion, the bell hanger of today—and his class is a handful—is a man virtually without a job.

New York city, which less than 30 years ago required the constant attention of hundreds of bell hangers, now finds use for less than half a score. Electric doorbells are blamed for the passing of bell-hanging artisans.

P. Werner, owner of a tiny West side shop, outside of which hangs the same sign he placed there years ago when he first opened for business, is one of the few surviving members of the rear guard of bell hangers. A few ancient homes, clinging to relics of the past, still claim his services. But electricity, he said, has ruined his business.

When Werner, then a young man, first started hanging door bells the trade was then in its heyday. Father Knickerbocker, tired of thunderous knockers than in vogue, demanded a new method of announcement and bells—operated by the pulling of a lever outside, which set bells in the home a-jingling—came into being.

For a brief few decades, the jangling bells were pre-eminent. Bell hangers were proud of their art. For years their ingenious arrangements, elaborate or simple, according to the householder's taste, announced the visitor. Some even played music.

Then came electricity. The public took up the new wrinkle of science and electric door bells, operated by the mere pushing of a button, rudely ousted their clunker predecessor.

"What will be next?" soliloquized Werner, "I don't know. Scientists can do anything. Perhaps wireless doorbells or telepathy?"

Origin of Halloween

Halloween, or All Hallows eve, is the name given to the 31st of October as the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints day. Though now known as little else but the eve of the Christian festival, Halloween and its formerly attendant ceremonies long antedated Christianity. The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights in the year this is the one during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad. About the first of November the Druids held their autumn festival and lighted fires in honor of the Sun god in thanksgiving for the harvest. The Druids also believed that on the eve of this festival Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. On the Druid ceremonies were grafted some of the characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona held about the first of November, in which nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part.

Letters Originally Alike

Originally, says the Detroit News, the letters "i" and "j" were one, the "i" having two pronunciations, just as "u" and "v" were once one letter, with two ways of using it. Without the present dots, as an authority explains, letters "i" and "n" when together might easily be read as "m," etc., and it was to avoid such confusion that the dot over it was adopted. The "j" as a distinct letter came into being through a custom in those days of the scribe giving a tail to an "i" at the beginning of a word, the flourishing being at first for ornamentation only. But since most "i" letters starting a word had the "j" sound, the tail in time became the mark of a letter of its own, the modern "j."

Having started, however, as simply a form of the "i," the little "j" retained the dot like the "i" even after the introduction of printing.

LIEUTENANT NOLAN REMEMBERS LITTLE OF HIS PLANE FALL

St. Paul, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Lieutenant William Nolan, injured in an airplane crash at Wold Chamberlain field in Minneapolis, January 17, in which Lieutenant Russell Olson was killed, told the adjutant general's special board of inquiry here yesterday that he remembered nothing of the circumstances of the fall.

He told the board however, three flights were made that day and his last recollection is of leaving the flying field the third and final flight, after making a series of "vertical 8's." Olson was piloting the plane at the time.

"I was uncomfortably chilly and with a view to protecting myself from the slipstream, or propeller blast of air, I ducked my head into the cockpit of the ship. I do not remember anything after that," Lieutenant Nolan testified.

The board adjourned last night until Monday evening when it will resume its inquiry at the army here.

Birds Eggs Food Supply

The breeding grounds of the northern birds are along the coast of the Greenland islands and Ellesmere island. The birds lay great numbers of eggs which form an important food supply for the natives. As many as 4,000 eggs are frequently gathered in a few hours from one small island.

A GOOD COUNTY AGENT IS WORTH THE MONEY

A good county agent is worth all the money paid by taxpayers for the investment. Morrison county, for instance, went some years without a county agent, but just recently contracted with another county agent.

Beltrami county realizes the importance of having a good county agent, but only a few are contributing to the expense. The Bemidji Daily Pioneer explains "that residents of Beltrami county are making a serious economic mistake in not insisting that the appropriation necessary for the continuance of the county agent work in Beltrami county be made by the county board rather than through private subscriptions as has been the case during the past year. Figures from the county tax rolls show that nearly half of the $2,500 necessary would be paid by non-resident land owners. These land owners are benefitting through the work of the agent and should be assessed their share. Nearly one-third is paid by the citizens of Bemidji who benefit indirectly through the increased prosperity of the farmers, while the balance is paid by the taxpayers of the small villages and the operating farmers. It certainly is poor economy on the part of the farmers who benefit to permit the taxpayers in Bemidji and the non-resident taxpayers to escape paying their share of this expense."

"There can be little dispute as to the benefits of the county agent. A number of Minnesota counties who thought it wise to cut down expenses by eliminating this service a few years ago, have since returned to the plan and will probably never leave it again. Beltrami county can certainly not afford to be without a county agent and a special effort should be made to get the appropriation properly made this year."

ECSTATIC ART OF ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING is considered by some people as a sort of prosaic business, contracting for so much space in a newspaper, filling it with desirable copy and then trusting to the medium of the publication to pull the desired business. There is also the follow-up in checking the business received, to see which publication is the most valuable in securing results. Truth in advertising is the cornerstone of all copy written.

And now comes one John B. Opdycke and publishes a book on "Ecstatic Art of Advertising" and enunciates some rare principles and clothes his language in the most beautiful thought, dipping into Caesar, Elbert Hubbard, H. G. Wells, Cecil Rhodes, Alfred Noyes, Shakespeare, Shaw, William the Emperor, etc., for further inspiration.

A review of his book as published in the magazine section of the New York Times, mentions that "what Ruskin did for the art of painting, John Opdycke has set himself to do for the art of advertising. And advertising is an art which has its devotees, its professors, its students. It is word painting, and sometimes with a vengeance."

"It is an art that holds within its far-spread boundaries not fifty-seven but forty-seven thousand varieties of expression. It is an art which calls forth the epic, the heroic burst of passion and the lightest laugh."

"It is an art which pumps up emotions and arouses all that is noble and ignoble in man—and woman, and sometimes children. All the world advertises and all the world is responsive. Advertising is not the product of any particular period; it has had existence at all times. Even before Creation there was Space. At least, the scientists say so."

COMMENDABLE WORK OF THE LIONS

R. E. WYETT, chairman of the Lions club committee, has addressed an appeal to Brainerd people and residents of the lake region to send in photographs of lake and fishing and recreation scenes so they may be given the various passenger departments of railways inquiring for the same. Brainerd has an excellent chance to do summer outing missionary work in attractive fields where returns are sure to follow.

The tourist business is worth every effort made to gain it. Three associations are striving to get their share for the various sections interested. There is the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota association which has a $40,000 fund, the Arrowhead association with $50,000, and the Minneapolis civic program with another $50,000 invested.

Brainerd is not just depending on the Ten Thousand Lakes association, but is using its own efforts too to attract business to our territory. The installation of the tourist park was a step in that direction; stocking of streams and lakes periodically with fish is another; bettering of roads is a third; increasing lake hotel and cottage accommodations is another, etc.

LIFE INSURANCE

IN speaking of life insurance, President Calvin Coolidge has well said:

"So far as I have observed, there is nothing that can quite serve as a substitute for life insurance. It is used as a guarantee of one's family, one's estate, one's own future, and one's creditors."

"The habit of carrying life insurance, and particularly of making some measure of sacrifice in order to carry it, is the finest method with which I am familiar of cultivating those habits of thrift and business steadfastness which are so essential to success."

"Considering all the elements of security which it represents, I am convinced that no other mode of investment can provide so much of assured and available indemnity as good life insurance. The salesman of such insurance is an evangelist of thrift and proper ways of living."

JOHN AND MARY

MANY a film play and story, too, uses John and Mary as the names of hero and heroine. The names are short, they headline easily and they are "grand old" names.

Seldom do we see the hero named Algernon and the heroine Rosemary. Not alone in newspapers do short names appeal, but when the stars are to be typed out in electric letters on any city's white way, it means more expense to write a long name.

PEDESTRIAN once meant one who walks, says the Kansas Farmer. Now it means one who runs and jumps.

called the mystery woman of Park Ridge. Although she lived in this old ruin of a house, it is said she possessed a fortune of at least $100,000. After her husband's death she boarded up the windows and doors and was able to leave and enter her strange home only by means of a tunnel which she had made.

Sister's Hair-net and the U.P. Wires

BORROW sister's hair-net for a moment and wrap it around a globe such as the one in the geography class in school.

Then you'll have some idea of the vast web of UNITED PRESS wires which girdle the globe.

OUT in the lonely Pacific a disabled airplane sinks to the surface of the sea . . . in London a great statesman dies . . . in France a Premier falls, disturbing the politics of the world . . . at Yale or Harvard a football match thrills a frantic crowd . . . these and scores of other messages coming winging over the wires with the speed of light.

In each of the UNITED PRESS Bureaus throughout the world, the men in charge are Americans, American-trained—men who report the news impartially, accurately and without bias.

The UNITED PRESS, of which this newspaper is a client, is an organization which makes neighbors of the far corners of the world, with eyes which see all nations as a whole and with ears which reduce a babel of tongues to the language of the plain American.

It is as easy to remember the word UNITED as it is to remember the UNITED States.

Look for the label "BY UNITED PRESS" over the news in the paper you read. UNITED news is authoritative, reliable, dependable—written by Americans.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

WE LIVE BY FAITH

Religion is not alone in demanding faith of its adherents. Modern life, without faith, would be an impossibility.

We take the doctor's medicine, not because we believe in the medicine but because we believe in the doctor.

We rest back comfortably in the railroad coach or go calmly to sleep in an upper berth without a thought of danger, because we have faith in that unseen and unknown engineer in the engine cab ahead.

We deposit our money in the bank, reassured, not by the great steel vaults but by the character of the men who manage the bank. We accept checks every day, buy groceries of unseen clerks, drink milk bottled by unknown workers, and stake our very lives on the honesty and dependability of thousands of workers whose faces we have never seen.

The scientist, with a glorious faith in the dependability of nature's laws, steps confidently out into the unknown with absolute assurance that the world we live in is a dependable one which will not play tricks on him, not deceive him. After many days he returns from his research laboratory with some new fact, new solution or new theory. He went out with only one or two truths to support him, and comes back with the thrill of a great adventure upon him. It has been an adventure of faith.

The churches teach faith. That is the foundation if their whole enterprise. Every Sabbath, in hundreds of thousands of churches and chapels, earnest men are assuring us that we live in a trustworthy world. For what else is faith in God but faith in the universe in which we live. In this teaching they are laying the very skills of civilization. Without this faith humanity would crumble up and die.

Faith is the absence of fear. It is the logic of life. Without faith we would be living in a madhouse. Faith is not understanding—it is accepting that which is known as a basis for believing in that which is still unknown. The hour which is spent in worship, strengthening one's faith, is the most fundamentally valuable hour in the whole week.

Papaya Is Delicious

One of the most delicious of tropical fruits is the papaya, or tree melon. The tree on which it grows resembles a small palm, its slender trunk surmounted by a cluster of large leaves below which hangs the conspicuous melon-like fruit. When ripe the fruit is yellow, is often 20 inches long and may weigh as much as 20 pounds. It is commonly used in the tropics for breakfast, for dessert and for salads.

Gave Name to Flower

The fuchsia is named after Leonard Fuchs, who brought the flower from Bavaria in the Sixteenth century.

"Black Death"

That name was given to a great epidemic of plague which occurred in Europe in the Fourteenth century and destroyed one-fourth of the entire population. Bubonic plague rarely occurs in America. A hemorrhagic rash, the "plague spots" or "tokens" accounts for the name of "black death." The cause of plague is a bacillus, of which rats are carriers.

RESIN BALL STARTS PRO AND CON TALK

MAGNATES FAIL TO AGREE ON THE BALL

NATIONAL LEAGUE MEN THINK IT WILL BENEFIT THE GAME

AMERICAN LEAGUE OFFICIALS SEE NOTHING GOOD IN BALL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 30.—Prominent baseball authorities failed to agree today on the merits of the change in the pitching rules permitting the use of resin on the ball.

The National League men, who proposed the change at their annual meeting in December, think it will be of benefit to the game and the American League men, who voted against it, see nothing good in it.

American League officials claim that the pitchers have been using resin on the ball right along and now will go even further in cheating with other substances if they are allowed to use resin openly.

While National League magnates do not deny that pitchers have been rubbing their hands with resin before they left the bench, they dispute the contention that open use of the substance will encourage more cheating.

Those who opposed the change in the rule believe that it will bring back the old sailers and floaters that caused the rule to be passed several years ago against the use of any foreign substances on the ball.

"As a pitcher," Babe Ruth said today, "I believe that the use of resin will help get better control but I doubt that many pitchers will be able to do tricks with the ball. When we were allowed to use stuff on the ball, there were only a few pitchers, like Eddie Cicotte and Hod Eller, who could make the ball do things."

Ruth also doubts that hitting will be decreased greatly by the change in the rule. "As long as the ball is full of holes," he said, "it will take more than resin to keep some of the heavy hitters from giving it long rides."

The American League representatives on the rules committee offered only friendly resistance. It was reported after the December meetings that the American League might break with the older organization if the National League committee insisted on changing the rule.

The American League voted solidly against the change but the deciding votes were cast by Commissioner Landis and Dale Gear, president of the Western League, who represented the minors.

"We think that the game will be improved by the change," John A. Heydler, president of the National League, said. "There can be no doubt that excessive hitting made the game less entertaining and that tighter pitching ought to bring back some of the old style baseball."

The Senators won their fourth straight game from the Pirates in the preliminary at the high school last night. The score was 10-3.

The game furnished thrills for the large crowd present, and got the spectators all pepped up for the big game following.

RESIN BALL MAY COME BACK

MADISON RETAINS HEARST INTERNAT'L ICE BOAT TROPHY

Madison, Wis., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Madison retains the Hearst International trophy in ice boat racing today following the victory late Friday in the fourth and last of the series of races of the Princess 11. The Princess 11 was piloted by Andy Fiom, veteran ice boat racer, around the 20-mile course on Lake Monona in one hour, one minute and 12 seconds. Four ships were entered in the race, the Hyli and the Putt of Kalamazoo and the Princess 11 and Miss Wisconsin for Madison. Miss Wisconsin withdrew from the race early because she couldn't take the stiff wind blowing. The Hylo and Princess were running a close race when the Hylo fouled the home stake and withdrew after the Princess 11 finished.

BRAINERD LOSES 17-14 GAME TO LITTLE FALLS

DOWN-RIVERITES SHOW BRILLIANT ATTACK IN WIN- NING

MARSHALL AND LAWRENZ STAR FOR LOCALS IN HARD FOUGHT TUSSLE

Brainerd high school continued on its way to a record in number of games lost consecutively, when they dropped their fourth straight game last night by a score of 17-14 to Little Falls. This was the second time in four weeks that the team from down the creek had short-changed our players, the game at the lower village going to that team 22-20 after the Brainerd team had apparently piled up a safe lead.

It was different last night. Neither team had enough to rely on for victory, although it looked safe for Little Falls when the third quarter ended with that team in the lead, 15-7. And then Brainerd came to life. Little Frankie Wise went in for Avery, and the crowd went howling mad, not because he is a better player than Avery, but because his diminutive form seemed to carry the charm of victory.

Shortly after the last quarter had started, Lawrenz slipped in a nice basket, and the score went to 9-15. Then Hauser, center of the opposition, fouled, and Marshall made the free throw good, boosting the score to 10-15. Avery replaced Lawrenz, and his first chance was a free throw because of Swintek's foul, but he missed the extra point. In another half minute, however, he redeemed himself by looping a perfect basket from near the center of the court, bringing the score to within three points of the Little Falls total. Bastien, captain and forward of the Little Falls team, momentarily halted the rush of our team, putting his team two points further ahead by caging a basket, but Marshall came right back with a long shot to bring the score to 17-14. The game ended shortly afterwards.

Marshall and Lawrenz were the heavy workers for the locals. Marshall has been a marked man in every game this year, and last night Hauser's special job was to trail him at every step. Even so, the lanky blonde slipped away from his guard-lan to get three baskets, while Hauser also took part in the scoring with two goals.

Lawrenz played at forward, and did remarkably well. He passed well, and was fast in his plays. Tribur was a keeper of the nets in back court who held almost everything away.

Coach Beresford used many men, changing players frequently in the last half. Among the new men who saw action were Lowe, DeRocher, Wise and Koop. Considering the time that they have had to get ready these men played well.

Bastien and Fortier were the speed merchants for the winners. These two small players kept their guards on their toes throughout. Bastien, captain, scored three baskets, while Fortier, playing his first game of the year, was a streak in his playing, his white head seeming to make a line of chalk through the air as he sailed into a play. The heart-breaking time of the game was during the end of the first half, when Swintek and Bastien each made a goal from under their basket, unguarded, after a fine play which brought the ball down the court. This marked the forging ahead of the Little Falls team. Up to that time Brainerd had held the lead, but thereafter they never recovered.

This game was also the first at which the crowd did concerted yelling. The yelling was so far superior to what has been done heretofore that it was a pleasure to listen and join in. The cheer leaders did good work.

Little Falls made seven baskets out of fifty tries, while Brainerd made six out of 50. The averages, 14 and 12 per cent, were low in scoring from the field.

The line-ups:
Brainerd pos. Little Falls
Avery rf. Bastien
Lawrenz lf. Fortier
Marshall c. Mrozik
Lowe lg. Swintek
Tribur lg. Keeler

Substitutes—Little Falls: Hauser for Mrozik. Brainerd: DeRocher for Lowe, Lowe for DeRocher, Koop for

HOCKEY TAKING PLACE OF BOXING IN N. Y.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 30.—Boxers around New York and their managers, who have been basking in the big dough for four years, have cause for concern over the hockey craze that has seized the city.

They have reason to be alarmed, too, over the interest that Tex Rickard is taking in ice sports in his new Garden and the warning that he has sounded for next year.

He said a few days ago that there was more money in the promotion of hockey and that boxing had degenerated so in class that he might use a fight card only once a month next winter and that he would bother only with the very best attractions.

It was a big gamble for Rickard to install the costly ice-making machinery in the Garden because hockey was practically a dead sport in New York and there was plenty of competition from convenient skating rinks.

But there were reasons to believe that New Yorkers were getting sour on boxing on account of the poor cards and the difficulty experienced in getting good seats. Some one must be responsible for the success the speculators have in getting choice seats but Rickard could not be blamed for the poor cards.

The good fighters, figuring on a seating capacity double that of old Madison Square Garden, where Rickard operated for years, doubled the price demands when Rickard moved into his new building and they gave him the laugh when he said he wouldn't pay any more big money for cheap cards.

The fighters made the mistake of figuring that the success of the Garden depended upon boxing and that Rickard would have to be generous if the fighters insisted upon holding out for top purses.

Hockey and skating, however, have already made boxing a secondary attraction in the Garden. The house hasn't been filled this season for a boxing match and hockey has drawn two capacity houses of 17,000 and other matches averaged from 8,000 to 12,000.

The Walker boxing bill restricts a promoter to one match a week, and in an expensive place like the Garden, it has to be a good drawing match to make expenses.

Rickard was left holding the bag for $11,000 after the benefit that was staged for the Christmas fund and that caused him to open his eyes.

He complains that he can't get the boxers to work for him. Some of the best attractions in the game are willing to take hard matches at some of the smaller clubs for from $500 up, but when Rickard sends for them they start off with $5,000.

Lawrenz, Lawrenz for Koop. Wise for Avery, Avery for Lawrenz.

Field goals—Avery 1, Lawrenz 2, Marshall 3, Bastien 3, Fortier 1, Hauser 2, Swintek 1.

Free throws—Avery 0 in 1, Lawrenz 1 in 2, Marshall 2 in 4, Mrozik 1 in 1, Swintek 2 in 3, Keeler 1 in 2. Personal fouls—Avery 1, Lawrenz 3, Marshall 1, Hauser 3 Swintek 2. Referee—Adams of St. Cloud.

STAPLES SWAMPS AITKIN TEAM

TOP HEAVY SCORE MADE 26 TO 6 IN LAST NIGHT'S GAME

The Staples high school invaded the Aitkin stronghold last night and carried away a top-heavy victory, by a score of 26-6.

Staples far outclassed the home team, and showed the results of some excellent coaching and team playing. The coaching of not only this year, but of several years past, was in evidence, the team playing together almost like a finish product.

Marland, center, and Bryson, forward, were the stars for the winners. Rev. J. H. Bollens of Brainerd refereed the contest. He called two fouls on the crowd for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Rochester, Mich.—Although temperatures stood at 44 above, final preparations were made today for tomorrow's big slide here in which 22 skiers are entered, including Anders and Lars Haugen, Normand Berger of Montreal, Alf Bakken, Olaf Skogen and John Stulick.

Lanier Annexes Canadian Record
Toronto—Walter Lanier, 18-year-old swimming sensation of the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., last night broke the Canadian swimming record for 440 yards free style by defeating George Young, the Canadian champion. Even Young bested his own mark, though Lanier won by half the length of the tank.

TOM GIBBONS RETIRED FROM SQUARED CIRCLE

WAS ONLY MAN ABLE TO STAY 15 ROUNDS WITH DEMPSEY

SAY HIS WIFE'S ILLNESS IS CHIEF FACTOR IN DECISION

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 30.—(UP)—Tommy Gibbons, veteran heavy-weight boxer of St. Paul, and the only man able to stay in the ring 15 rounds with Jack Dempsey since Dempsey became champion, has retired from the ring.

Gibbons made the announcement as he boarded a train here early today for St. Paul. He said his wife's illness was the chief factor in his decision.

"Every time I went to an important fight," said Tommy, "my wife suffered a nervous breakdown. I am not going to jeopardize her health any more. I have taken care of my earnings so there is no necessity for my staying in the pugilistic game."

Gibbons has been known for many years as one of the cleanest fighters in the ring. He has devoted much of his time to real estate operations in St. Paul and is reported to be wealthy.

Gibbons' last important fight was with Gene Tunney in New York. He was knocked out by Tunney and although he offered no alibi it was later learned that news of his wife's serious illness had been brought to him just before he entered the ring.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS

Johnny Dundee in Good Showing
New York—With a wise old head that has carried him through 17 years of fighting, Johnny Dundee, veteran former featherweight champion, stood up for 10 hard rounds against Joe Glick, New York youngster, but lost the decision. Dundee won only one round by a narrow margin. Joe Dundee, Baltimore, won a 10-round decision from Joe Simovich, and Ray Miller won a 10-round decision from Johnny Nichols, of St. Paul.

Paolino Stopped Barrik
Barcelona—Paolino, Spanish heavy-weight, stopped Barrik, French heavy-weight, in the fourth round when Barrik's seconds threw in the sponge. Barrik was floored twice in the third round and three times in the fourth.

Pequot 38, Hackensack 36
Hackensack could not continue the fast pace they set at the start of their game with Pequot last night, and lost to that town 38-36. The first quarter ended 11-0 in Hackensack's favor, and in the next quarter the score was boosted to 21-13. With the second half Pequot seemed to get their second wind, and tied the score at 26 all. The center on each team made seven baskets, and one Pequot forward made seven goals. Peterson of Brainerd refereed the contest.

Chaperon's Duties
The word chaperon is not feminine, although it is generally applied to a woman. It means a hood, and when use metaphorically signifies that the married woman shields her youthful protegee as the hood shields the face.

Irish Soldier of Fortune
An Irish soldier, Count George de Browne, who became a Russian field marshal, was commander in chief of the czar's forces in the war with Denmark, in the Eighteenth century. Browne died at Blga in 1792.

POST OFFICE ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Burglars Break Lock of Basement Door, But Strike Heavy Bar

NO LOSS RECORDED

Local Office Twice Before Robbed With Losses of $300 And $250

Burglars last night attempted to enter the Brainerd postoffice, but failed to make an entrance. The attempt was discovered at 6 o'clock this morning by the janitor, Henry Anderson.

The entrance was attempted through the basement. After jimmieing the lock on the door, the thieves struck a heavy oak bar across the inside of the double door, and gave up the attempt, not having any way of removing that obstacle. Had they been able to gain an entrance, they still would have had two doors to break through before getting upstairs.

This is the third time in about two years according to Postmaster Carl Adams, that the postoffice here has been the object of an attack. The first time was in October, 1923, when thieves shot the vault door and secured about $300 in stamps and currency. The next time was on June 22, 1925, when the vault door was blown and two compartments, the registry compartment and the document compartment, were forced, this time the thieves getting about $250 in cash and documental stamps. The strong box was cut, and capped but not set off, the thieves evidently being frightened away before completing the job.

The burglars last night did not leave many clues to work on. Police are working at the case.

BIG SCOUT RALLY MONDAY EVENING

Boys Will Meet at the Court House to Get Ready for Their

16TH ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Ice Cream Will be Served—Complete Plans for Ticket Selling Campaign

Monday, February 1st, at 7:30 at the court house, there will be a rally of all the Scouts of Brainerd. It is called to get ready for their sixteenth anniversary week, February 7th to 13th. At that time the Scouts will be instructed in the songs and yells which they will sing around the Council fire for the show on Feb. 11th. There will be many other interesting things.

At that time the trophy which will be awarded to the Troop selling the most tickets will be on display. The trophy is a beauty and one that every Troop will be proud to have their name on. As the award will be made on a percentage basis, the small Troop will have an equal chance with the large Troop, so let everybody be on hand Monday night to get their tickets and get started. As an additional reward, it has been decided to give the boy who sells the greatest number of tickets one week free at summer camp. That certainly is fair enough and a pretty nice prize.

Home here, that the money made from this show goes toward improving camp so that those who sell tickets will be the ones to benefit by so doing. "Let's make enough so that we can have a good large dock equipped with a high dive and spring board next summer," said the executive. "Oh, yes; I very near forgot to announce that there will be eats on hand for everybody in the nature of our old friend, Ice Cream," said the chief. The Troop having the largest percentage present on time will be awarded first place in fire, so don't forget the date and the time and the place and the eats.

CHARGES RECKLESS WHITEWASHING DONE

Washington, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Samuel Untermeyer, prosecutor of the Lockwood housing scandal expose in New York, yesterday wired Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, democrat, of Montana, charging that the department of justice had been unbelievably reckless in whitewashing prosecutions on deliberately faked defective records in cases like the General Electric Cement, Window Glass trusts, and innumerable criminal combinations.

Untermeyer urged a thorough investigation of the department, saying the facts would amaze the country.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover is largely responsible for the situation, Untermeyer said.

ROADS OF COUNTY REMARKABLY GOOD

All State Aid Roads in Excellent Condition For This Time of Year

DEWING HIGHWAY REPAIRED

Bridge Over Daggett Brook on White Line Road No. 7 Soon Finished

The report of the county engineer, Walter M. Murphy, shows that all roads in the county are in excellent conditions for this time of year. Some work has been done on the roads lately, including some graveling on the Dewing Highway, which is State Aid road No. 2.

Snow has been of minor interference in the travel on Crow Wing county roads so far this winter. Some of the narrower roads hold more snow than others, but not enough to make passage difficult.

The report of the county engineer follows:

S. A. R. No. 2, Dewing Highway. This road runs through the southern tier of townships of the county. It is narrow and therefore holds more snow than the wider ones but it is traveled. Graveling is being carried on over the three mile strip that was constructed last summer in Platte Lake township.

S. A. R. No. 3, Brainerd to Emily, known as the Merrifield road. Good entire length. There are a few short snow drifts which however do not impede traffic.

S. A. R. No. 4, Crosby-North. Good shape in its entire length.

S. A. R. No. 5, Deerwood cut-off to Trunk Highway No. 19. Fair with the exception of a few chatter bumps.

S. A. R. No. 6, Inland Trail. In good condition throughout. Bridge over Daggett Brook which is on White Line Road No. 7 one quarter mile west of the junction with S. R. No. 3 is finished and will be ready for travel early next week as some filling will have to be done around the abutments of same. This is the work that was let out on the day labor plan at the last county board meeting.

White Line roads are fair throughout the county. All roads are in remarkable condition for this time of the year.

Monthly Meeting of Church Society Held Last Saturday

The Followers of the Gleam held their monthly meeting on Saturday of last week. Following the usual round of business, with the president Kathryn Carmichael in charge, the meeting was turned over to the program committee, of which Viola McKay was chairman.

The program consisted of alternate reading by members of "The Boat that Waited," from "Brave Adventures." After the reading, the members worked out a crossword puzzle, in which the name of the hero, and many other words of the story just read, were found. The program concluded with an instrumental solo, "Melody of Love,"—H. Englemann, played by Rachel Evans.

A social hour followed, with refreshments served. One new member was welcomed into the society.

SALVATION ARMY BOARD MEETING

CAMPAIGN FEBRUARY 8-13

Successful Meeting Held Last Night at Ransford Hotel

The advisory board of the Salvation Army had a very successful meeting last night at the Ransford hotel.

The campaign manager spoke briefly on the work of the Salvation Army in other cities, and outlined the campaign system used in other communities. Following his remarks, the meeting was thrown open for suggestions from members of the board.

The campaign starts February 8, and continues to February 13. Civic organizations are co-operating in putting the campaign across.

PREDICTS PROSPERITY FOR EVERYBODY; EVEN FARMERS

Chicago, Jan. 30.—(UP)—American business has been made more secure by world events of 1925, according to Francis H. Sisson, prominent New York banker. In an address before the Illinois Bankers association Sisson predicted prosperity in all lines of business, including even agriculture.

"Agriculture," he said, "has travelled a cycle of five years duration and is now on the up-grade in spite of constant problems of production and distribution. Unless some unforeseen industrial depression occurs, agriculture is likely to continue on the up-grade without artificial aid."

Much of his optimism, Sisson said, was based on international developments which have given business a better and more hopeful outlook.

The inauguration of the Dawes plan, the conference of Locarno and the treaty that came out of it, the gradual readjustment of international relations and the restoration of political and economic stability have all marked a definite turn to the right, away from the baffling cross roads at which the world seemed to have lost the way," Sisson said.

These developments however, mark only the beginning of events that promise economic security, Sisson explained. Many problems remain to be solved, he said, "before it can truly be said that the world has received its economic stability."

Conductors, Trainmen Seek Wage Increase

New York, Jan. 30.—(UP)—Demand for a wage increase, which the carriers claimed would add $500,000,000 to their expenses, will be made by conductors and trainmen, who ask that wages be fixed at the scale set by the railway labor board in 1920.

Union leaders have instructed conductors and trainmen to make the request, it was said, and under their instructions the rail heads will be told that an answer "in writing will be expected by March 2."

The order has been issued according to reports by W. G. Lee, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, to union representatives on the various railroads. No formal comment was forthcoming.

Fitted Sports Coat of Heavy Tan Needlepoint

The fitted sports coat is one of the favorites. This coat is made of heavy tan needlepoint. The collar and band is of wolf, but no fur adorns the sleeves. One button holds the coat together.

Gayest Dress Trimming

Is Favored in London

This season appears to be the season for gay trimmings, according to the majority of the displays, notes a London fashion correspondent.

Dress decoration never has been brighter than now, and dress creators compete with one another in evolving new and original effects. Bold trimmings in elaborate designs in gold and silver, and brocades in many colors in large patterns which scintillate in the artificial light are exceedingly popular, and are to be found on evening and dance frocks worn at clubs.

There is no rule concerning the position of the decoration, and the creator may decide which he thinks best.
Although Paris has shown many back treatments, there does not appear to be the same enthusiasm for this mode in London, as there is nothing else so destructive to the fresh look of a frill, flounce or bow as being sat upon.
Therefore the majority of gowns show
all the trimming in front.

As an example, a black evening gown displayed a full apron across the front hemmed with black fur, and almost covered with vivid tangerinecolored beads and paillettes arranged in mass formation on the surface. Another model was covered with a patchwork design executed in bits of different-colored tissues. Patchwork, incidentally, appears to be the most fashionable form of decoration for this season.

Mosaic designs in beads and tassels are gaining in favor, while flower motifs very often are finished in the center with a silk or pearl tassel in an outstanding color. Long streamers are attached to the shoulders of evening gowns, and knotted together in the center of the back.

One feather waving on the shoulder is gaining in popularity in place of the much-worn flowers, for trimming dance frocks.

Put to the Test

Finklebaum was a good but exasperating tenant, and, being touchy, the landlord did not like to offend him. So one day he cornered the old man and, with his most ingratiating smile, said:

"Finklebaum, I dreamed last night that you came up to my house, rang the bell, asked for me, and, without my saying a word, handed me the money you owe me."

"So?" said Finklebaum. "Do you believe in dreams?"

"I have a great deal of faith in them," said the landlord, hopefully.

"Den give me the receipt," said Finklebaum, "and I'll believe in 'em too."

MR. "AVERAGE MAN"
RISES TO OCCASIONPower to Meet Emergency,
Common to All.

The average man, so we are told, is honest. Diogenes, for all the light of his penny lantern, could not find him, and the editors, who have been looking for him ever since, haven't found him either. He may be honest, that average man! he may be strong for family life; he may never look the other way when the plate goes by at church, nor pass Sally in her blue straw on the corner without a dime to match her smile. He may belong to the Kiwanis, and always land on the green in five—they say he does.
I don't know. I never saw him.

No; I never saw him, and the man who saw him I never saw either. The truth is either an advertising agent invented him, or else the department stores did. Have you ever tried on the average man's coat at Fittens & Chargitt's as I have? The name on the tag gives it away. It is sure to be a "medium stout" or anything which shows it's not just plain average.

If I were a king in a fairy story,
and did not want to lose my daughter, when I advertised for a husband in the regular way, I should simply give notice that the first average man who turned up should marry her—and then I'd keep her to make my green old age very comfortable.

There was a time when I thought otherwise. In the days when we were all slender, and our hair grew very black, it was my job to try to revamp the old Atlantic Monthly. For a time it did not occur to me that our subscribers were average people.
How could they be, reading those austere, unillustrated pages? Well, I began printing pieces which happened to interest me and the normal, natural people who were my friends.
What happened was surprising. The circulation grew every month a little more, until it was about ten times what it had been. They were all ordinary people reading it. But had not they something which led each in his individual way to want a magazine that made no conscious appeal to the ordinary average man?

Did you ever notice in reading the story of a fire or of a sinking ship, or of an engine tumbled over an embankment, how the "average" man behaves? Was there ever such a story which did not have a hero? And what is a hero but the average man when the call comes to him, and he forgets he can't do things, and does them?

There is a story in tonight's paper of an average cop. He had sworn, it seems, not to use his own revolver, lest some bystander be injured. That was a natural, average thing to do, and when the crook he had just arrested broke away the cop went after him with his bare hands. Once the crook shot, twice, three times; then the fourth bullet landed in the policeman's abdomen, but he went right on, climbed with the thief, turned his own weapon on him, killed him in his tracks, and was carried off to a hospital to die. Not an unusual story but one which gives you a little more confidence that the chap next you will do his bit when the time comes!
And perhaps you will, too.

William James wrote a wonderful essay on the energies of men. He tells how the runner will keep his stride while his heart is bursting within him and his backbone knocks against his ribs. He comes to the utter end, and then suddenly, marvelously, comes the new wind. The muscles taut, his breath ripples easily, and he is off to win the race.

That is the miracle which comes to all of us, which makes every man know in his secret heart that he is just a little better than the next, and that he can win. "I," he whispers to himself, "am a Jones. My father was a Jones, before me. Of course I can win—why, after all, they are only average men."—Elbery Sedgwick in Collier's.

Highly Scented Wood

Rosewood is the common name of the wood of several trees valued for beauty and use for ornamental furniture. The principal species is thought to be a Brazilian mimosa.
When being sawed or cut, it yields an agreeable smell of roses, hence its name.

Colleen Moore and her Brother Cleve in "We Moderns"

"Flapper" Is Dead, Long Live
"Modern"

Girls, are you "moderns" now, or still just "flappers."

The "modern" was introduced recently by the camp Fire Girls as a substitute for the "flapper" term.
They maintained that "flapper," as now applied, means merely a girl with flighty brains. And they launched a national campaign to wipe off the alleged stigma.

As a successor, they nominated the term "modern." This, they claim, more justly describes the present-day girls—one who is industrious, ambitious and getting ahead in this world of woe.

Showing at the Lyceum theatre
Sunday and Monday.

Cornell the Pioneer

At Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., the first institution in the country to teach electrical engineering, the first outdoor electric lighting was installed in 1875, according to Prof.
Frederick Bedell, four years before Edison made the first practical incandescent light. This was on the original Cornell campus, the illumination being supplied by two arc lights. The current was furnished from a dynamo built by Prof. W. A.
Anthony and Prof. G. S. Moler, who is still a member of the faculty. Although it was recently used as a shop motor, this generator, said to be the first ever constructed in the western hemisphere, is still in good condition and is preserved in Rockefeller hall.

Killed by Jealous Rival

Adrienne Lecouvreur, the celebrated French actress of the early Eighteenth century, is said to have been poisoned by the duchess de Bollillon, her rival for the affections of Maurice of Saxony, and buried secretly.

Deer Thrive in New Home

Red deer from Scotland have been acclimated in New Zealand, where they have multiplied to such an extent that there are now three times as many of them in their new home as in all Scotland.
